“Awesome to attend this massive show. I learnt so much during the AIP sessions and trainings. Being part of the delegation is an amazing way to network. I made new contacts including a potential customer and a potential supplier!”

“It was a joyful moment with my new encounters! Packaging is indeed a complex topic with different people from across the continent and across different subset of the field. I had an opportunity to not only meet people from my own specialty in plastic, but also from paper industry. This opportunity was great as we all strive for sustainability goals within the industry, regardless from what perspective we might have. Lastly, the most fun I had was the opportunity of networking without any seniority. In the AIP it doesn't matter if you are in CEO level, Worldwide association level, or student. Everyone shared their expertise without any social barriers and enjoyed ourselves to the fullest with our passion in the industry!”
